Next Steps Planning

This program focuses on

- preparing effective leaders and trainers for your program with coaching and other help available from our experienced training staff
- preparing people for an international assignment
- those committed to cross-cultural ministry closer to home

When entering a new culture, whether for a week or a lifetime, the issues that determine effectiveness are not the information or lack thereof. They are the ability to respond well to the sights, sounds, smells, tastes and unexpected experiences. Thus,

- 1) developing the heart of a servant,
- 2) accepting oneself and others,
- 3) learning to ask good questions, and
- 4) sharpening observation and coping skills are all critical to making the most from a cross-cultural experience.

Who Should Attend?

- Current mission trip leaders
- Past mission trip participants
- Clergy and youth leaders
- Mission/Outreach coordinators

The ServantPrep® Training Program was developed by Mission Training International (MTI) (Missionary Internship, Inc) based on the training model used in the preparation of more than 18,000 career missionaries for more than 250 agencies. In 2000, ServantPrep® Training became a division of The Gateway Missions Training Center to provide similar training for Short-Term Mission leaders who will assist STMers to focus on the same critical issues faced by career missionaries.

Gateway Mission Training Center came into existence in the El Paso/Juarez areas to provide short-term mission training and ministry opportunities in a very unique setting – the largest metro area in the world straddling an international border. Their programs include personal and team training, internships and multifaceted evangelistic and church-planting ministry.

Check out gatewaymissiontraining.org for other programs and resources or contact Ray Howard at 303 757-4442 or at 3065 S. Norman Court, Denver, CO 80224.

The World Mission Committee is sponsoring this seminar as part of their commitment to train Christians throughout the Diocese of Fort Worth for short-term mission leadership and as one component of the "Parish Mission Leaders" certification program.

During our time together, both seasoned trainers and those new to STM leadership will share their own experiences and learn how to develop and strengthen their programs to focus on building life-long followers of Jesus. (We are convinced that a short-term missions experience should be just the beginning of a life long commitment to World Evangelization).

We will experience and debrief

- a training sequence
- modeling and teaching principles
- proven techniques used in one of the world's best preparation programs for career missionaries.
